Now who ate the text? What I meant to say is that BPQ4.06k is now in /pub/ham on ftp.demon.co.uk. It will doubtless appear in all sorts of other places real soon now.

- At one time Heathkit (which I understand is demised, if not and you have
- their number send it tome) sold a "Most Accurate Clock" which was as WWV
- receiver with RS-232 output. I need to get something like that for a
- research project I am working on.

Heathkit lives, barely. Most Accurate Clock II is in the catalog at $349.95. It's not the Heathkit we grew up with though. Sad to say the number of kits is near zero. Most everything is already built or educational kits. Very little of the old familiar hobbyists paradise survives.

They even dropped the revolving charge they used to have and never bothered to tell anyone about it. Imagine my surprise when I decided to order something from the catalod and found no space for "Revolving Charge" under method of payment.

They call themselves "Heathkit Educational Systems" now.
